Spirited Rosebud tumbles Socceroos

By RICHARD FRENCH,
Soccer Reporter

ADAMSTOWN Rosebud first grade and the Northern NSW under-18 teams showed last night that the fighting spirit of northern soccer is still a force to be reckoned with.

Playing a partly new-look Australian team in its first appearance since bowing out of the World Cup, Adamstown won 2-1 thanks to goals by guest player Marshall Soper and Steve Bejjath.

Celebrating its formation 100 years ago to the day, Adamstown scored in the fourth minute after an Andy Stankovic free kick was headed down by John McQuarrie, dropped by Australian goalkeeper Jeff O'Neil. Soper, a goalmouth mauler, scored in the 40th minute when Graham Jennings, one of the Socceroos' most dangerous players on the night, Paul Trimball, dived inside the area where Adamstown's keeper, Steve Dorman, challenged for the ball.

Dorman, 28, had, in Australian coach Frank Arok's words, "a magnificent game", making numerous second-half saves to deny the Socceroos.

Bejjath's successful penalty came after a promising Adamstown attack, set up by skipper McQuarrie, was broken down by a Jennings tackle on Mark Smith, who Jennings climbed all over in a second attempt to clear the ball.

Both sides had goals disallowed. Soper was denied in the 73rd minute for having his hands on Oliver. A header by George Haniotis, after a piercing cross by Mike Peterson, was turned down because striker Abbas Sead was ruled offside in front of Dorman.

An ecstatic Adamstown coach, Neville Power, put the wix in front of about 2000 people down to "strong and steady defence under pressure".

Arok, bleeding many new players in his re-fit of the Socceroos, said the defeat was "not the end of the world, it is a beginning".

"We played reasonably well and put on attractive football," Arok said.

Their goalkeeper was magnificent and the home team really put their heart in.

"We controlled the ball well but did not put the goal away."

The Northern NSW under-18s beat the under-18 Australian Jovys 2-1 through fine goals by AIS-based striker Brett Eldridge. An own goal by the north was Australia's only consolation.

Adamstown Rosebud Club Centenary

ADAMSTOWN Rosebud Soccer Club has a sense of history about it.

This week, as the writer stood in the club foyer looking over the display of old team photos and memorabilia, an elderly member sidled up.

"That's the 1925 side that took on the touring English team," he told me. "That's Arch Harris there, and Pete Doyle. He was the captain. That fellow there is Alec Cameron ... The English won 8-1. They were good; they beat everyone on that tour."

Was he a member of the team, I asked, since he seemed to remember them all so well. "No ... I was only playing around in 1935." And he went off without telling his name.

Next week the club celebrates 100 years of a history that is very much alive in the minds and hearts of its members and players.

A MEETING to form a new 'British Association' football club was held in a cricket shed at Adamstown Park on Monday July 12, 1889, despite the onslaught of a fierce thunderstorm.

A young football player, Peter Finlayson, who had been encouraged by an enthusiastic Rev John Penman, had called the meeting, and at the end of proceedings found himself the secretary of a new football club.

As Peter Finlayson said, in regard to the misery caused by the stormy downpour: "Things born in adversity often grow to great success." So they did with Adamstown Rosebud.

The name Rosebud was chosen, for many reasons, at a subsequent meeting and became, over the next century, a byword for club excellence in Australian soccer. It still maintains that reputation.

After 100 years — a football commentator noted some years ago — "Few of the game's honours are missing from the Rosebud's proud record."

A PART from the traditional measures of success which the club displays in its trophy cabinets and record books, Adamstown Rosebud has many other credits to its name.

Club supporters are all supporters in the ebullient

The legendary Min Buckley would brook no slight to the club she supported so fervently, and was ready to back up her support with whatever came to hand!

Bobby Bell became well-known to Newcastle TV viewers, who waited for his voice to rise from the stands during every game, crying out — "UP THE TOWN!"

The Rosebud club has been blessed with a succession of fine and generous administrators, outstanding among whom was 'Dinny' Hamilton, a founding member and secretary from 1904 to 1924. A citation in the club's trophy cabinet remembers him.

The spirit of generosity at Adamstown is to be seen in its unstinting assistance to players of merit in forwarding their careers. Two notable recent cases were Ray Baartz and Col Curran, members of the Australian 1974 World Cup team, whom the Rosebud club sponsored to spend six months at Manchester United in Britain. The stay was extended to two years.

Another example of the club's big-hearted approach to the game is to be seen even today. Wallsend Red Devils, an old enemy of Adamstown on the field, was offered a 'home' at Adamstown when it lost its own field at Wallsend during recent supermarket developments. Wallsend still uses the Adamstown field as its 'home away from home'.

Finally, a measure of the esteem in which the club is held can be seen in its junior program, from the earliest days a foundation of the club's strength.

The junior club's current president, Barry Garaty, describes the determination to make the youngsters feel proud that they are more than just a tail wagging on a famous dog. "They get the best balls. The best playing strip, the best coaches, the best of everything we can provide."

That, too, says something about the kind of attitude that has kept Adamstown Rosebud Club running strong for so long.

And the next step, for a club with a pedigree like this, must be a move to State and national level.

One hundred years is a long apprenticeship.

Grand finalists share common bonds

ADAMSTOWN

THE history of football in Northern NSW is inextricably linked to the mining of coal and tomorrow's grand final between Adamstown Rosebud and Weston Workers Bears has more in common with that connection than most people realise.

It might come as something of a shock to the current crop of Weston and Adamstown players to learn that their clubs, both steeped in strong and proud traditions, are tied together by bonds of work forged deep underground.

Through the names that Adamstown Rosebud and Weston Workers Bears carry as their signifiers, appear to be at opposite ends of the vastly scale, the difference between their origins is not so great.

Adamstown's choice 100 years ago of the name Rosebud evoked memories of England in a district with a landscape otherwise unfamiliar to many miners coming to Australia.

And, although it came later through association with a licensed club, Weston's name, too, suggested the close-knit communities of miners struggling together to earn more than just a living from mining the black diamond.

The name is, according to the Northern NSW Soccer Federation's official historian, Harry Hetherington, that Weston was formed by Adamstown players.

The interrelation Harry is putting together for an official history of the game in the north shows that in 1908 a group of miners, including some Adamstown soccer players, was transferred by the Fletton Coal Company to the Weston area to help begin a new pit at Fletton.

A year later a Mr B. Barclay, a keen supporter, entered a team in the competition called Weston Adamstown. And a couple of the names of former Adamstown players in that team ring a bell.

Included on Harry's list of the first Weston team are J. Gemmell and a G. Turnbull. Now, as history has turned the full circle, one Brett Gemmell will play as captain of Adamstown in the grand final and Jack Turnbull, fitness permitting, will play for Weston.

But of course it is more recent history that will play heavily on the minds of the two teams that run onto Macquarie Field at Sydney Point tomorrow night.

For Adamstown there is the golden opportunity to cap off its century with a minor-major premiership double in a year that has seen it beat an Australian team. And then there's the almost dangerous desire to make up for the gap of two years when Adamstown were minor premiers but grand final losers.

Out Weston way there's talk of a return to the glory days of the 1970s and early 1980s when the team was considered almost a certainty to make the semifinals and probably the grand final, all on top of the team's first supremacy in a competition decided since 1984.

But for football in the area generally, a game between two of the most successful and historically important clubs is more than just a chance to revive old memories.

The word around the traps is that those two teams more than any others in the north are capable of playing a brand of entertaining football that produces plenty of goals, even in a do-or-die grand final struggle.

It comes as something of a surprise that since the breakaway northern federation was formed in 1986 Adamstown and Weston have met in grand finals only three times.

Weston beat Adamstown 4-1 in 1973 and 3-2 in 1974. But, perhaps as a good omen for Adamstown, the last time the clubs met in a major premiership decider, Rosebud won 2-1 in a replay after a 1-1 draw in 1976.

Both clubs have of course won many other championships, minor and major titles and even State competitions in the days when many southern teams were sent home with defeat in their hearts after a long rough journey to Newcastle or the Coalfields.

With both current teams evenly matched for skill, Adamstown having a slight edge in experience and Weston in enthusiasm, the bottom line is how badly the players want to win.

For the sake of soccer's flagging fortunes one can hope only that whichever side wins they do it with style and a flurry of goals to help write another chapter in the record books of these two great clubs.

Thompson part of the Weston tradition

DEREK Thompson is one of a long line of British footballers who moved to Australia to become part of the proud footballing tradition of Weston Workers United.

Weston's first grade coach, Thompson, now 43, came from England in 1976 to start a new life. But the main attraction was Weston's soccer fraternity.

And now, five years after Weston's great era of premiership teams in the 1970s and early 1980s ended, Thompson is pleased to again be part of a club that is very aware of its place in the north's footballing history.

'In the era of the early 1980s after all the wins in the 1970s it was expected that Weston would make the grand final and a little bit of complacency crept in,' Thompson says.

'It's been a long time between drinks and the enthusiasm has come back.

'I'm particularly pleased for the committee people, who are almost all the same ones we had in the early 1970s.

'They've worked really hard on the ground and promotion, as have all the players, and making the grand final has given them a new lease of life.

'It's a great reward for the people who've stuck at it and I think if we can carry that onto the field we'll be hard to lose.

Derek Thompson

'There'll probably be a bit of black and white put up around the town this week.'

Like so many of the names associated with Weston and football, Thompson has served the club loyally ever since he came to Australia.

He played in the Weston team that won the double in 1977 but hung up his own boots after being player-coach in 1978 because of a bad injury that took away the twisting and turning mobility needed to play soccer.

Now an operations manager for the House With No Steps, Thompson coached Weston from 1979 to 1982, winning the 1980 State League minor premiership, the 1981 grand final of that competition and the 1982 northern grand final.

Many would consider the highlight of Thompson's career as being coach when Weston won the 1980 State League title. Though that 'was an achievement', Weston won the minor title on goal difference, so Thompson feels more satisfied about winning the northern double as a player in 1977.

He also has grand memories of a game in 1980 against a team in Sydney.

'Weston went down to play Sydney City in a Philips Cup game, and we expected to be thrashed.

'But we were beaten only 1-0 in extra time at Marconi's ground, and that was one of the best atmospheres I've experienced at a game.'

Thompson stepped aside after 1982 to concentrate on raising a young family and to pursue his interest in long-distance running.

A certain amount of 'tiredness' with the job and administration of the game also played a part in the decision.

But asked to return last year, Thompson, who in his time away from the game ran the 'occasional marathon', has set his mind to bringing Weston through the long haul back to the top.

Power may finally catch one that keeps getting away

NEVILLE Power believes in his team and hopes their hard work is rewarded with the minor and major premiership double.

The 33-year-old boilermaker is a highly respected coach and former national league player who in the past three years has moulded together the dominant northern first division team of the late 1980s.

After coaching Adamstown to the minor premiership three years running and seeing the team lose the past two grand finals, Power is willing the players to win for themselves, perhaps because there is little more he can do to ensure a victory.

'In 1987 we threw it away against Austral because the boys didn't come out after half time and go on attacking after being 2-0 up.

'Austral scored early in the second half and put the resources on us

Neville Power

A Lambton junior, Power has been a player and coach with other successful northern teams.

He began in senior football as a 1984 and 1985, and was coach in the latter year.

It was in 1984 that Power suffered his worst setback as a player. Only two weeks before Newcastle Rosebud United's 1-0 National Cup triumph over Melbourne Croatia he broke an ankle. But despite that disappointment, Power, like so many others involved in those final heady days of Newcastle's national soccer glory, looks back on that era as the 'best times I had in football'.

In 1986, Power played his final year of football with Belmont Swans United, bowing out with a grand final win, before returning to Adamstown as coach.

The quietly-spoken Power said he made many friends in his year at Weston and that experience taught him to respect the club on and off the field.

'Weston will be no pushover and we'll certainly know we've been in a

King sets out to recover soccer crown

DENNIS is a menace from the midfield to any team his beloved Weston Workers Bears plays, and if he can help them win the grand final against Adamstown he may well be crowned King of the Coalfields.

The man referred to in of course, Weston's trump card in a campaign that the Bears hope will end in their first grand final win since 1977.

But Dennis King, a 31-year-old potline operator at Alcoa aluminium smelter, would love to win the grand final as much for his team-mates and his town as for himself.

King, a magically skilled midfielder who's represented Northern NSW many times, knows all about what it's like to win and lose grand finals. When he runs on against Adamstown it will be his eighth appearance in the pressure cooker atmosphere of the race for a major title.

The dark and curly haired gentleman, who's respected by all his opponents as a player who can turn a match around with his vision and skill, began his first grade career with Camerock when he was only 18. He went to Weston a year later and has played with the club for all but four seasons since.

In 1980 and 1981 King played again for Camerock in second division. After three seasons back at Weston and a year off to recover from a knee injury he played with Camerock's 1988 second division grand final-winning team, one of many Camerock wins that finally saw King's original club climb back into first division this season.

After the 1986 win with Camerock King returned to Weston where he has been rewarded with yet another grand final appearance.

'I've been in seven grand finals since 1977 and only lost two,' King said.

'The old heart started pumping blood towards this one weeks ago.'

'I booked the day for the grand final in my life because I was confident we could make it and I'm confident we can win it.'

Looking back on a season in which Weston hardly lost a game for the first half of the competition but then began to fade at the end, King was still convinced the team had what it takes to knock over a side such as Adamstown.

'It's all come together again in the past two games (a 1-0 semifinal win against Cardiff and the 2-1 win over West Walbund in the final).

'I can assure you that Adamstown are in for a game.'

But I have a lot of respect for Adamstown. They have a lot of good players such as Brett Gemmell, John McQuarrie, Ross Wells, just three of the ones who are really dangerous.

'I think there'll be a lot of goals in the game and I'm tipping a 3-2 win by Weston.'

Like his former team-mate at Weston and now the captain of the opposition, Brett Gemmell, King is a midfielder player who's hard to pin down to one position on the pitch.

He, too, has a rover's job and that combined with his talent makes an in-form King a nightmare for opponents.

Derek Thompson (Weston's coach) tells me to do a job he knows I'm capable of.

He wants me to get forward and attack as much as possible and I certainly enjoy doing it.'

Though far from being an inexperienced side, with players such as Jack Turnbull, captain Dominic Murrone and Rod Oliver knowing what a grand final requires, Weston's rebuilding program after the successes of the 1970s and early Dennis King... relaxing this week before grand final No 8.

1980s does mean the responsibility placed on King's shoulders is far greater than in many of his other grand final appearances.

'A grand final is a different game for a lot of the younger blokes.'

'I have spent time telling some of them what it's like.'

'In the minor semifinal they were a bit nervous and I think that was the case.'

'But the important thing is to move the ball quickly and not get caught in a situation that can lead to panic.'

Coping with rising temperatures, tempers

JIM REEVES could be forgiven for hoping the temperature during the grand final drops well below average, although he doubts whether the heat of the players' blood will be a problem.

Reeves, 49, the National Soccer League's referee of the year, will be officiating in his seventh Northern NSW Soccer Federation grand final.

After coping last Sunday with an unseasonably hot day for Newcastle Austral's last home game in the State Soccer League this season, Reeves admitted he would need to be on his mettle for the Adamstown versus Weston game.

'I think it will be a very good game of football,' Reeves said.

'Both sides play a fast and open style.'

'Adamstown and Weston are clean teams and because I know all their players I don't think there's anyone I need worry too much about.'

Jim Reeves

'But I do expect to have my legs run off.'

The ever-smiling Reeves controlled the national league grand final between Marconi-Fairfield and Sydney Olympic. Though some expressed surprise at the appointment, the man from Waratah was vindicated by good post-match reports and selection by his peers and the NBL as referee of the year.

Reeves will be supported in the northern grand final by two linesmen with national youth league centre experience, Graeme Finn, a former Toronto Awaba player, and Dennis Bartlett, a former Austral and Lake Macquarie player.

The fourth official for the game will be the secretary of the northern referees, Milton Pollock, who has been nominated to join the national league senior panel for the coming summer season.

Gemmell rides highs and lows

A GRAND final win by Adamstown Rosebuds would put the jewel in the crown of the career of its gem midfielder.

Brett Gemmell is seen the best and worst football has to offer.

He's played national league soccer had his chance at a long-term career in first-class football ruined by injury, won and lost grand finals and been honoured with the club captaincy of Adamstown in its centenary year.

'This is definitely the best year I've had in football,' Gemmell said.

But there's so much riding on this one game.

We've been conscious all year before every game that this is the club's 100th year and that there would be no better way to celebrate than... with the minor and major premiership double.

And Gemmell's own future in the game may depend on the result of the grand final against Weston. Though Gemmell hasn't made up his mind, one gets the feeling that after years of struggling to play with a serious knee injury a win to Adamstown might be enough to satisfy one of the north's hardest working players.

An Adamstown win over Weston would come 10 years after Gemmell, 37 and a draughtsman by trade, played in his first grand final. Coincidentally that was with Weston against Highfields Azurri, one of the few grand finals in the 1970s and early 1980s that the Bears did WIN.

Gemmell played his junior football with Garden Suburb and Charlestown. He went to Weston when he was 16 and stayed for three seasons before being snapped up by Newcastle KB United.

But after only one season in the national league Gemmell was struck down by a knee injury that threatened to end his footballing life. He missed three seasons and had eight operations, including two reconstructions, between 1983 and 1986.

'It just went from bad to worse,' HE SAYS.

The wheels really fell off and I thought I would have to give it away.

I was out of the game completely and couldn't even hear to go and watch.

But I just kept working on my general fitness because I didn't want to come back too early; it's as good now as it's going to get.

Sadly for Gemmell, and Newcastle football in general, Newcastle was out of the national league by the time his career was resurrected.

I would have liked a chance to chase an NSL career.

But you never know what's just around the corner.

It's a real shame that the national league team in Newcastle fell apart, the town was really behind it but the administration made too many mistakes by spending its money in the wrong areas.

By 1986 Gemmell had come back and played one season for Highfields Azurri before moving to Adamstown. But after playing only the pre-season in 1987, Gemmell succumbed to the injury again and missed the rest of the season.

Fighting his way back into a team that won the minor premiership in 1987 but lost to Austral 3-2 in the grand final after being 2-0 up at half time, Gemmell must have thought his bad luck had ended when Adamstown again won the minor premiership and made the grand final last year.

But this time around it was West Wallsend that dented the club the minor and major premiership GOALS.

Like a bad dream or a blessed chance to make amends, Adamstown has won the minor premiership this season and is only 90 minutes away from the major title.

But although Gemmell believes the team he leads can hand the club the best anniversary present possible, he has experienced enough disappointment to be cautious.

After our semifinal against West Wallsend (which Adamstown won 5-1) I would rather have played them in the grand final.

I think Weston will be a lot harder to beat with players such as Dennis King and Rod Oliver in the midfield. But if Ross Wells and David Bock are on their day they can score a few.

Weston play a lot closer to our style than Westy but both teams have enough skillful players to make the game very entertaining.

I think that whoever makes the most of a lot of chances that should be created will win.

Gemmell, who has a roving commission from his coach to follow the ball around the park and particularly to interchange with midfielder John McQuarrie, had never captained a team before this season.

But even going into a grand final he's not feeling the extra pressure one expects the burden of leadership to impose.

It doesn't affect my game that much because of the experience we have.

At least half a dozen of the players are about 28 and therefore I don't need to make as much impact as captain.

Brett Gemmell... a key player in Adamstown's plans to topple Weston in tomorrow night's grand final.

Penalty Shoot out

Weston 4 . Adamstown 2

Dr. H. C. Gleason (M.D.)

Minor premiership is what counts, rivals agree

THE Englishman in Weston Workers Bears' coach Derek Thompson would have swapped a 10 grand final win over Adamstown Rosebud at Macquarie Field on Saturday night for a minor premiership.

But amid the post match jubilation of the club's first grand final win since it last appeared in a major premiership decider in 1984, Thompson was able to appreciate the agony of the Adamstown camp.

'I said when I began as coach again last year that it would take us three years to do this, so tonight's a bonus really,' Thompson said.

But I would swap this for a minor premiership . . . I feel sorry for Adamstown and don't know what they have to do to win a grand final.

The minor premiership is all about consistency and I would rather have that.

Neville Power can be proud of what he's done.

A 'shattered' Power, who has coached Adamstown to three successive minor titles, said his players had put in a great effort to win but he just didn't know what they had to do to 'crack it'.

A still smiling Power, reflecting on the achievement of leading the comp for three years, said grand finals were 'one-off things and the minor premiership really counts'.

Most soccer players love to win a minor premiership but in Australia the grand final is a glory day where the players get a chance to do it in front of a big crowd.

But Weston are a great club and they're always well supported. All credit to them for their win.

Weston 'workers' claim grand final

By RICHARD FRENCH,
Soccer Reporter

THE band played Working Class Man as Weston Workers Bears triumphantly carried the Northern NSW Soccer Federation first division grand final cup into their club on Saturday night.

It was a fitting tribute to the team's workmanlike display of determination to hang onto a 1-0 half-time lead against Adamstown to win the grand final at Macquarie Field, Speers Point, before about 3500 people.

Weston's victory came in the 37th minute of the game after a throw-in fell to its captain and striker, Dominic Marrone.

Marrone, just outside the area, got the ball down to Anthony Beckett, who slid it past Adamstown's defence to midfielder Dennis King.

King slipped through the cordon and slotted the ball past Adamstown goalkeeper, Steve Dorman, to bring to their feet the large contingent of Weston supporters that had built up since its under 18s won their grand final.

Adamstown came storming back in the second half but were unable to find the equaliser that might have opened the floodgates.

The minor premiers began the match dangerously, getting into Weston's box three times in the first two minutes.

But soon after Weston pushed forward for the first time it inadvertently stamped a small but important mark on the game.

Weston midfielder Rod Oliver, trying to keep possession, came into heavy contact with Adamstown midfielder John McQuarrie.

After what appeared to be a simple case of two men going in hard for an early 50/50 ball, McQuarrie threw his hands up in despair as referee Jim Reeves gave him a yellow card.

Though Adamstown coach Neville Power did not believe the yellow card affected the outcome of the game, McQuarrie was kept quiet until the second half.

After Reeves handed out the card, however, the game developed into a gruelling series of tackles and niggles that resulted in stop-start football.

Neither side, and particularly Adamstown, was able to take advantage of set plays from free kicks and corners.

Weston had its best early chance in only the sixth minute when striker Robbie Green put the ball into the box after a short corner. Green found defender Martin Murphy, but his point-blank shot went straight to keeper Dorman.

Three minutes later Adamstown's David Bock won the ball in the air and found Ross Wells in space. But Wells was denied by the first of many good saves by Weston goalie Peter Oberhauser.

For the next 10 minutes the two teams traded blows with Peter Winasee for Adamstown and Green, who kept his opponent's defence under pressure throughout the game, firing off shots over the top.

In the 28th minute Reeves pulled Marrone up for a yellow card after a tackle on defender Mark Smith, but the quickness of the decision stopped a movement that might have seen Winasee in space just outside the area.

Three minutes later Bock found enough space down from the right to get a cross in that Oberhauser could not hold. Wells was on the spot to get around the keeper but his narrow-angle shot hit the side netting.

Between King's goal and the half-time break the game slowed down, although Green got off one more shot in the last minute that Dorman held onto just inside the post.

Early in the second half Adamstown played uncharacteristic long-ball football but in the 53rd minute put together an attack that promised better things.

Bock played the ball wide to Smith who lofted the ball to the far post where McQuarrie's header slid away from the goalmouth.

Adamstown then stepped up a gear for a final assault that forced Weston into a defensive mode that saw it playing up to seven men at the back.

Somehow Adamstown still managed to penetrate the wall of black and white shirts several times in 20 minutes of football that could have seen Weston's victory slip away.

In the 60th minute Adamstown's captain Brett Gemmell started a movement that ended with McQuarrie pulling the ball down inside the area. But McQuarrie, who relied on all his skill to control the ball, fired his short range volley wide of the mark.

Only two minutes later, McQuarrie picked up on King's only mistake of the game and raced towards the goal. Oberhauser was drawn and it appeared the same was about to happen to the score.

But McQuarrie hesitated, his shot was blocked, and all was literally lost.

From the corner that followed lanky Andy Stankovic's header was deflected off the line and a minute later Oberhauser used his foot to keep another shot by Bock out before he grabbed hold of the ball.

The burst of Adamstown's blitz ended with two shots by Wells, one an overhead kick in the 71st minute that Oberhauser dipped over the bar and another that Wells hit too high.

Weston then came out of its shell and counter-attacked often enough to deny Adamstown the time to get back in the game.

The winners would have gone 2-0 up in the last minute if Dorman had not brilliantly forced a lightning shot by Beckett over the back of the net.

Weston coach Derek Thompson admitted that Adamstown had the better of the second half but he paid tribute to Oberhauser for a great game.

And Dennis King was all over the place, Thompson said.

It was fitting that he scored to crown a brilliant season.

We got ourselves in a hole in the second half and almost didn't get out.

Marrone, Weston's 28-year-old captain, said he believed his team won because they wanted it more.

It was very important to me because it's my first year as first grade captain.

We had nothing to lose and we mixed it with them in the first half and didn't give the game away.

Adamstown coach, Neville Power, praised his team for a fine second half.

I can't be critical of any of them, Power said.

They did everything in the second half but score.

It was a good game and people watching shouldn't be disappointed.

Azzurri juniors shoulder the burden

IF Hilda Azzurri can overcome Weston Workers Bears in the first division under 18 grand final, season 1989 will not have been a complete loss for the struggling club.

Azzurri's first and reserve grade teams had poor seasons but their lack of success may ironically increase the chances of the club's under 18s.

Because of the injuries and loss of form that Azzurri's higher grades suffered this season many of its under 18 players were provided with full first grade games and part-time appearances off the bench.

Like many minor premiers, Azzurri will face a team that came from fourth place to reach the grand final.

And Azzurri coach Garry Ivory also faces the prospect of a team that is coached by Weston's most experienced first grade player, Jack Turnbull.

During summer Weston's power was Azzurri's under 18s. Last year it was one of the sides he coached to last year's under 18 minor premiership, and many of them have gone onto first grade and northern junior representative

Included in Azzurri's strong squad are an Austral juniors Jeremy Norgard at right full back and prolific goalscorer Danny Gleeson on the right wing.

Playing up front will be Jason Ivory, a northern under 18 player who, along with midfielders Jason Aird and Mark Oliver, was promoted to first grade by coach Joe Stockdale.

Azzurri lost only two games and won its major semifinal against Belmont Swansons United in a penalty shootout, but one of the two games the side lost was to Weston.

Weston beat West Wallsend 2-1 in the minor semifinal and Belmont 1-0 in the final.

Playoff a chance to break deadlock

HONOURS are even this season between the under-18 teams meeting in the second division grand final.

Budgewoi, playing its first year in the Northern NSW Soccer Federation, were beaten 3-0 by Newcastle Macedonia in their first encounter but bounced back to win the second-round game 1-0 with only 11 players.

After losing its first grade finish last and reserve grade come close to a semifinal place with a fifth place, Budgewoi have something to build on in the future with its under 18s.

Co-coach Steve Smith, a first grader who runs the under-18s with team-mate Steve Thorne, said the team was quite good in view of the fact that many of the players were only 16.

Budgewoi finished second on the table and beat minor premiers Maitland 2-1 in the major semifinal.

Newcastle Macedonia, one of the best-supported teams in any division (it attracted 2000 people to one game this season against Newcastle Croatia) saw its reserve and first grade teams beaten in the semifinals.

But Macedonia's under-18 team fought its way from fourth place by beating Toronto Awaba 1-0 in the minor semifinal and Maitland 2-1 in the final.

Coached by Ian Milne, Macedonia's under-18 squad provided up to five players during the year for both the club's reserve and first grade teams.

Included in the team for the under-18 grand final are Northern NSW goalkeeper Dean Conway, and the club's overall top scorer for the season with 15 goals, striker Hubert Kacov.

The big winners of 1989

FIFTY-three clubs took part in the Northern NSW Soccer Federation's five divisions in a 1989 season that began badly with week after week of wet weather.

But after the skies cleared midway through the winter most divisions were able to complete almost all their games.

Though the federation was forced by the wet weather into deciding not to relegate or promote teams based on their results in the competition, all that has been put behind as the top teams in each division have fought out, or are about to tomorrow night at Macquarie Field, their respective semifinal series and grand final.

The minor premiers and grand final winners, in competitions already decided, are—

First Division:

BUDGEWOL were outclassed by a faster and more skilful Newcastle Macedonia in the second division under-18 grand final.

Macedonia won 3-0 with a goal in the first half and two in the second after Budgewol failed to put together enough passes any time in the game to threaten their opponent's goal.

Macedonia's goals came in the 7th, 60th and 68th minutes through Martin Krause, Robert Kacev and substitute Chris Hieski.

The team had a number of other chances one-on-one against Budgewol's goalkeeper, Peter Rooms, but failed to finish them.

Budgewol persisted with long pass football which never looked like producing goals in the strong breeze.

Late in the second half the referee Greg Skelly, was forced to give out several yellow cards, mainly to frustrated Budgewol players and in the 62nd minute he sent Budgewol attacker Ben Wright off for arguing with a decision.

MEMO TO ALL: 2 BS.

Dear Sir Madam,

SUBJECT: PROMOTION/RELEGATION 1989.

COMPLETED IN 1989 SEASON.

Because of the great number of games still outstanding due to the continuing wet weather and the uncertainty of future weather patterns, the Board of Directors has decided to suspend promotion and relegation for the 1989 season.

Following the weekend of 24th/25th June no deferred fixtures will be reallocated by the fixtures officer. If the two clubs concerned are unable to rearrange a suitable date and venue, the points will be shared.

Fixtures postponed by Clubs that claim their grounds are unfit for play and their grounds are not ruled out by councils, grounds committees, or referees' inspectors, shall be declared a forfeit.

In such cases, any club that refuses to play a first grade fixture shall forfeit the match, with the appropriate penalties applying. However, no penalties shall apply against clubs that defer reserve grade and/or U/18 fixtures so that first grade games may proceed. If reserve grade and/or U/18 fixtures are postponed for the above reason, the first grade game must be played.

Newcastle City Council has advised that its grounds will not be available after 20th August, 1989. If your Club has a fixture allocated to it after this date, and has its ground in the Newcastle Council area, you should write to the Council and seek approval to play on the allocated day.

Attached is a list of rescheduled matches. If the home Club is unable to play on its ground it is to arrange a suitable replacement as per Regulation D. 35 (a) (1) which reads:-

"In the event of the ground being unfit or unavailable for an official fixture the Home Club shall arrange an alternate venue for that date and time. The Federation and Referees must be notified of any change of venue as soon as possible, but not later than 48 hours before the scheduled date.

Failure to comply with this regulation, or part thereof, will result in a forfeit to the opposing club, and a fine as decided annually."

First division clubs that have deferred games not listed are to arrange midweek matches, under lights, as soon as possible and advise the Federation Office of the details.

Mrs V. Dean,
Secretary.

Penalty shoot out Edgeworth 3 v Macedonia 2.

Referee F. Bradwell

Patience is paying off for the Eagles

MICK Davies is as pleased as punch to have been part of an Edgeworth revival in Northern NSW soccer that has culminated in a second division first grade grand final match with Belmont.

The 38-year-old player-coach has led the club to its first minor premiership and into its first grand final appearance since it was demoted to second division after getting into financial difficulties in the early 1980s.

Edgeworth's opportunity to win the second division double follows four years work by Davies to direct the club back in the direction of its glory days.

But standing in the path of Davies and the Eagles is a club that dragged itself from fourth place into the grand final. Belmont beat Toronto Awaba 2-0 in the minor semifinal and Newcastle Macedonias 1-0 in the final.

Edgeworth won the minor premiership over Newcastle Macedonias on goal differences but then proved its worth as the title holders by beating the team tipped to win the competition in the major semifinal.

Davies, who played with Maitland Magpies in 1968 when the city won the soccer, rugby league and rugby union premierships and also had played nine seasons at Weston in its heyday, was assistant coach at Lake Macquarie and then Weston before taking up the job at Edgeworth.

'The thing that is really good about Edgeworth doing so well is that it has beaten other teams with a lot of money to spend,' Davies said.

'It's taken four years to bring on a lot of young players and then this season some more experienced ones have come and played for nothing.

'Apart from Warren Mills (formerly of Austral and a federation player of the year), Joe Delzotto (Newcastle Macedonias), Wayne Todd (ex-Wallswood, and Western Suburbs league player) and Peter Terry (ex-Weston) the team is all Edgeworth juniors, including Tommy Mlgate's son, David.

'But Belmont came from fourth place so we're not taking them lightly.'

Edgeworth will face a Belmont team that, according to coach Wayne Holt, also has a good mix of experience and local junior talent.

Formerly the club's under-18 coach, Holt, a Belmont product himself, said his key players were strikers Paul Hutchison and John McNeil.

Backing Hutchison up will be the 'old heads' of central defenders Graeme Swan, formerly of Wallswood, and Peter Vallender.

And although Belmont will be without one of its usual midfielders, Warren Bergquist, who broke a cheekbone in the minor semifinal, Steve Pichaloff, an ex-Lake Macquarie first division player, will easily fill the gap.

Mick Davies, the coach behind Edgeworth's revival, at his other building job this week.

Treble helps Eagles soar

A HILLIANT hat trick by 18-year-old Gerry Wilson gave Edgeworth a 3-2 win over Belmont in the second division first grade grand final.

Wilson scored in the 1st, 6th and 87th minutes to overcome a Belmont team that came from behind twice to almost force the game into a penalty shootout.

The Edgeworth junior took all box three goals with extra time on.

He started the first along the ground after beating several defenders and fired the other two over Belmont's keeper, Craig Nicholson.

Edgeworth were worthy winners after a strong and confident performance, featuring steady discipline from the midfield.

David Morton Wilson, Michael Holch and 18-year old Paul Frazee combined well to put Belmont under constant pressure.

Belmont were unlucky not to go 1-0 up when a first minute shot hit the bar.

But it was not until the 38th minute that Belmont was able to penetrate a steady Edgeworth defence.

Belmont striker John McNeil stretched onto a rare Edgeworth mistake to level the score at half time. After the break Belmont pressured their opponent, particularly through the holding skills of Paul Hutchinson, and were denied in the 70th minute when Thibaut kicked a shot off the line.

McNeil then missed a goalkeeping opportunity when he failed to get around Edgeworth's keeper Henry Stewart.

Edgeworth went 2-1 up after a free kick that saw Morton retreat, a blocked shot and put Wilson into space.

Ten minutes later amid a flurry of substitutions, Belmont headed the score from a free kick when Graeme Swan caught Stewart off his line.

But in the game headed 3-1-1-1 down Morton again hit the end-on work for Wilson's winning strike.

Wallsend wants a path back into the first division

THE decision by the Northern NSW Soccer Federation to regrade Wallsend to second division has caused some movement on another front.

About to stir back into action is the licensed club, the Wallsend Soccer Club Ltd, which has been idle since its doors closed in August, 1987.

The club's secretary-manager, Ian Campbell, and the president of the soccer club, Bob Thomas, have had lengthy discussions in the past few days.

Neither Thomas nor Campbell wanted to talk about the plans at this stage.

But they agreed positive moves were underway to get Wallsend back into first division.

Wallsend was forced to use other grounds for its home matches - Adamstown Rosebuds Oval and the International Sports Centre.

But a home ground is one of the criteria for a club to remain in first division and club officials believe it was because of this that Wallsend is now in second division.

Mr Thomas hopes that if the club can show the federation it will have development of a home ground underway by the end of 1990, the federation will reconsider its decision.

Negotiations took place with Austral United for Wallsend to use Austral Park as its home ground next season.

And although promises were made, the decision had not been ratified at board level before the Northern NSW Soccer Federation met last week to decide on the formation of Wallsend's problems centre around the club's lack of a home ground.

Wallsend's previous clubhouse and ground, Crystal Palace, were sold for $1.97 million and a Super K-Mart built on the site.

Much of that money was used to pay off the licensed club's debt of about $900,000. The rest was invested.

The licensed club was supposed to develop a new clubhouse and grounds at the intersection of Mimms Road and Sandgate Road. But nothing has happened.

divisions for 1990 and subsequent regrade Wallsend.

The president of the Northern NSW Federation, Dave Williams, said he did not want to comment on Wallsend's plans at this stage.

"We have received two letters from Wallsend asking for a meeting," he said.

"The first was only brief and I telephoned six other directors, far more than a quorum, to get their views."

"All agreed there was no point to a meeting."

"A second arrived yesterday asking for a discussion on Wallsend's position and other matters."

"It does not say what the other matters are."

"We have still not made a decision on whether we will meet them."

Wallsend gets legal advice on relegation

By RICHARD FRENCH,
Soccer Reporter

WALLSEND Soccer Football Club will take legal advice on whether it can challenge the Northern NSW Soccer Federation's decision to relegate the club from first to second division.

The federation announced yesterday that it had decided on Tuesday night to relegate Wallsend, promote Edgeworth, Toronto-Awaba and Belmont from second to first division and promote Raymond Terrace from third to second.

The federation has also given fourth division club Newcastle Olympic and fifth division club Newcastle Technical College seven days to accept an offer to move up a division.

But the president of Wallsend football club, Bob Thomas, said last night that the club would seek legal advice.

League team Newcastle Australis was willing to share Austral Park, Birmingham Gardens, next season.

Wallsend played last season at Oval. Although it is believed

Rosebud was willing to continue that arrangement,

Wallsend officials are adamant they received an assurance from an Australis official.

But two Australis directors said last night that although the move was discussed and the club was keen to help, no decision had been made and no assurance given to Wallsend by Australis's board.

It was believed that under federation regulations a club's junior super league teams have to play on the same ground as senior teams, and any offer to Wallsend from Australis could not be made until a solution to that problem was found.

Thomas said that Wallsend football club, which is 103 years old, was given no chance to tell its own directors about the decision and put a case to the federation.

Before he learnt from The Herald that Australis's board had not approved the move, Thomas said: 'We feel we meet the criteria (on ground standards laid down by the federation). The federation has acted amateurishly, we should have been told at a meeting, not over the phone.'

The federation was not supposed to announce the move,

November 30, another day, which that would have given us a chance to verify (the availability of the ground) with Australis and the federation.

Wallsend's relegation follows discussion within the federation in the past few months, and more recently with first and second division clubs, about restructuring competitions and introduction of strict criteria on facilities.

Wallsend has been without a ground since its famous home of Crystal Palace and the licensed Wallsend Soccer Club were sold to developers in 1985.

Thomas said plans to use the proceeds to build a new home for the football club had been in the hands of the secretary-manager of the licensed club, Ian Campbell, and Newcastle City Council since the sale and he knew nothing of the plans.

Campbell said last night that 'it would be inappropriate to discuss the plans'.

But I am hopeful Wallsend will have a new ground by 1991,' Campbell said.

He said use of part of the land (the corner of Minnie and Creek roads) was subject to approval by many different bodies.

It is a confidential item at council, I'm bound by that and happy to be,' Campbell said.

Asked how much money from the 1985 sale was available, he said: 'I am not into discussing amounts of money, it's not relevant to the story... we have adequate funds.'

But NCC alderman Vic Bell said last night that the licensed club's option on the land expired on October 24. The council had resolved to rescind the previous offer and call for indications of interest from any party wanting to develop the land, he said.

Ald Bell said the council had not specifically discussed in camera the site but other talks had been held with the football club, not the licensed club, to try to find another suitable site.

A federation director said yesterday that the difficult decision to relegate Wallsend could not be based on sentiment.

The decision was made because without a ground Wallsend could not meet the criteria agreed to recently by first and second division clubs.

But under the terms of Tuesday night's decision Wallsend, like all other clubs, had two years in which to fulfil the criteria and retain a place in the top two divisions.

Relegation 'not open to challenge'

17/11/1989

NORTHERN NSW Soccer Federation regulations do not allow clubs to challenge a decision to relegate a team, federation treasurer Ken McNeil said last night.

Wallend Soccer Football Club is seeking legal advice on whether it can challenge a federation decision to relegate the club from first to second division.

McNeil said nomination forms sent to all clubs in August stated that the decision was not subject to challenge or change.

The federation was sympathetic to Wallend, 'one of the oldest clubs' and one 'which the federation did not want to lose'.

But the club had been relegated because it no longer had a ground of its own. He was surprised the club had not known the regulation.

But Wallend can still lodge an appeal about any other matter it feels it has not been properly treated on, McNeil said.

the federation isn't over backwards for Wallend. There has always been a promise that something would happen but how can you wait?

Why didn't they come to us and say, 'we're in trouble because we don't have a ground'?

Wallend played last season at Adamstown Oval, and has been without its own ground since Crystal Palace and the leased club were sold to developers in 1985.

Proceeds from the sale were expected to be used to finance a new ground but that apparently is in the hands of the secretary manager, Ian Grant.

McNeil said also that although Wallend asserted the decision was not to be announced until November 30 the nomination forms had stated the decision would not be made later than November 30.

Wallend's president and secretary W L and Nina Thomas said yesterday that a motion had been given documentation to examine

Licensed club 'would consider' call for aid from Wallsend

By RICHARD FRENCH
Soccer Reporter

THE licensed Wallsend Soccer Club might help Wallsend Football Club challenge a decision to relegate the club from first to second division, the licensed club's secretary manager, Ian Campbell, has said.

Campbell said the licensed club could 'certainly give consideration to any request for help with legal action.

But we do not know yet if that is necessary, desirable or what it would cost, Campbell said. [do not want to cloud the issue by threatening the federation.

Campbell said he was told by a federation director last week that a meeting with the football club could be held if he requested it in writing. But no undertaking about the outcome was given and he had not made the request because the federation had not replied to the football club's second request for a meeting.

The Northern NSW Soccer Federation rejected the football club's first request for a meeting to discuss the relegation. But the second request will be considered at a federation directors' meeting tonight.

Football club president Bob Thomas said last week that the club only wanted 'a round' table conference. He said unless the federation met the football club, we would go further to court.

Wallsend has sought legal advice and Thomas said Campbell told football club officials last week that any action could be financed by the licensed club.

Thomas said a solicitor told the football club legal action might be based on the federation's announcement last year that there would be no promotion and relegation and the detrimental effects on the club of offering greater coaching and player payments for next season.

Ian Campbell

But, as The Herald reported during last season, the federation stated that because of disruptions to competitions caused by rain there would be no promotion and relegation based on results only, although applications based on ground standards would be considered.

Thomas said going to court was the last defence. Wallsend (which played last season at Adamstown Oval) and could have done so again, wanted only to prove it had an assurance about using Austral Park.

The federation told the club it was relegated because it did not have a ground of its own. But Thomas said Wallsend still hoped Newcastle Austral's board would confirm it could use Austral Park, Birmingham Gardens, next season.

Austral officials have said no decision was made by its board to offer Wallsend use of Austral Park but have made it plain the State Soccer League club wanted to help.

Wallsend officials maintain their application to stay in first division was based on an assurance from an Austral official that Wallsend could use Austral Park.

Wallsend has been without a ground since Crystal Palace and the licensed Wallsend Soccer Club were sold to shopping centre developers in 1986. Proceeds were supposed to provide a new home ground.

The federation maintains it could no longer wait for licensed club officials to confirm or take action on plans to provide a ground.

Federation president Dave Williams said that 'half a dozen board members' decided not to meet Wallsend's first request for a meeting because they would not change their decision.

But Williams said the board would now like to know what they (Wallsend Football Club) meant by the term (in the second written request for a meeting) 'other matters'.

If they have plans for 1991 we would like to help if we can.

But we want to know what they have in mind.

NNSWSF may agree to meet Wallsend

By RICHARD FRENCH,
Soccer Reporter

NORTHERN NSW Soccer Federation president Dave Williams has not ruled out a meeting with Wallsend Soccer Club to discuss a decision to relegate the club from first to second division.

The club sent a letter to the federation yesterday requesting a meeting to discuss the decision.

Wallsend's president Bob Thomas said the club had a three-page letter from a solicitor outlining the case it might have to challenge the decision. But Thomas would say only that the advice revolved around the federation relegating the club on the basis that it did not have a ground of its own.

They (the federation) have stated we did not have our own ground, but they did not verify that with Austral, Thomas said, referring to an assertion by Wallsend that an Austral official gave the club an assurance it could share Austral Park, at Birmingham Gardens, in 1990. Austral has since distanced itself from the dispute, with senior officials refusing to comment publicly.

Wallsend has been without a ground since Crystal Palace and the licensed Wallsend Soccer Club were sold to developers in 1985. The proceeds were supposed to provide a new ground but the secretary manager of the licensed club, Ian Campbell, refused this week to reveal details of those plans.

Williams said that until he and the federation's other executive members, Ken McNeil and Bill Walker, examined the letter he could not say a meeting would be held. But he did not rule out a meeting if the executive believed anything could be achieved.

But Williams asserted the federation directors checked with an Austral director during Tuesday night's meeting. The information from that Austral director and another Austral director Williams had personally spoken to confirmed that although an assurance may have been given by a club official, no decision was made by Austral's board.

I can't see any harm in having a meeting but I won't say if there will be one until the executive has seen the letter, Williams said.

But Wallsend has been told they cannot appeal against the decision.

Reacting to Wallsend's decision to seek legal advice, Williams said: I guess as Bob Thomas has said they have to do anything they can to help the club survive, which they say cannot happen in second division.

But we didn't know what plans they had for the future.

The federation has never been involved with dealings with the licensed club, it (the federation) deals only with football clubs.

They (Wallsend) stated in their submission that Austral Park would be their home ground in 1990; they should have made sure that was tied up.

The club has been floating around for three years without its own ground and has been given three years consideration.

We thought it was time the federation did something, and other clubs were pressing for criteria on grounds.

It's not the first time Wallsend has been relegated.

The clubs promoted to first division next season, Edgeworth, Toronto-Awabe and Belmont, are former first division clubs.

Austral lends a hand to Wallsend club's hour of need

By RICHARD FRENCH
Soccer Reporter

WHATEVER else the future holds for Wallsend Football Club, its most ardent supporters and officials can rest assured that in Newcastle Austral United Soccer Football Club they have a friend.

"As Wallsend floundered amid the disappointment of being relegated from first to second division by the Northern NSW Soccer Federation, its frustrated officials were warmly welcomed this week into the arms of Austral.

Austral's decision to offer Wallsend the use of its ground, Austral Park at Birmingham Gardens, next season is filled with the goodwill that an often-maligned game has been known to bring forth from tight-knit communities.

Though Austral's invitation to Wallsend to use Austral Park in 1994 is not without its advantages for the State Soccer League club, including more people spending money in the licensed club, the decision was made also with a measure of senti-

As a footballing entity, Wallsend has a history more than a century old built on the backs of mainly British miners. Austral, on the other hand, is only about 38 years old, formed after World War Two when the young families of southern Europeans stepped into the sunlight of Australian society from the shadow of migrant camps.

Once it was the proud Wallsend club that offered Austral a helping hand and allowed it to play at the famous Crystal Palace until the fledgling club established a home of its own.

Now Austral, well established in the State Soccer League and looking with confidence towards a place in the National Soccer League, has returned the favour and friendship.

"It was something we felt would assist the code and a club that has been operating for 103 years and deserves its traditional place in the establishment of soccer. Austral's vice-president Sid Wilson said.

"If Austral had not done this it could have meant the demise of Wallsend."

Though Wallsend could have continued playing at Adamstown Oval courtesy of Adamstown Rosebud, the club decided to approach Austral after an informal survey of supporters found that the team was more likely to win back crowds if it played closer to its traditional home.

Austral's treasurer and a former Wallsend player and official, Bob Frame, who was also caretaker coach last season, said that he believed the club's on-field fortunes could be much advanced if its supporters felt the team was moving back towards its heartland.

Wallsend president Bob Thomas said that the club's supporters would feel more comfortable at Birmingham Gardens and, given the shorter distance compared to a trip to Adamstown, he expected better crowds for the club's 'home' games.

Austral's secretary manager, David McQuire, said that Wallsend would have full use of the ground and its facilities, including gate takings for Northern federation games, with the only conditions being that Wallsend accepted normal responsibilities such as cleaning up after matches.

McQuire said negotiations would be held with the Northern federation and the NSW Soccer Federation to work out the best way to schedule games for Wallsend and Austral.

There was a possibility Wallsend would play some games on the same day as Austral, made State League appearances.

But Austral's Junior Super League teams would still use Austral Park for most of their games.

Clearing the air on licensed club's future

Wallsend should be on new club, soccer site in 1991, says Campbell

By TERRY RADLEY

WALLSEND Soccer Club's secretary, Ian Campbell, has decided to clear the air on the club's future.

The Wallsend club has been in the headlines since the decision by the Northern NSW Soccer Federation to relocate the soccer club from first to second division.

But it has been the financial position of the former licensed club, and what the future holds for it, that continues to attract much of the attention.

Mr Campbell said the club, with debts of $1.5 million, was sold along with its famous ground, the "Paddock", to developers in 1987 at three years of negotiations.

The site is now occupied by the Wallsend Plaza Shopping Centre.

Mr Campbell said that after the sale the club had a surplus of about $500,000, which had been invested pending the development of a new club and home ground for the still proud Wallsend soccer club.

He said it would be "commercially unwise" to reveal how much money was in the account at present.

($500,000 invested at about 15% for three years could have the account as high as $760,000.)

The Wallsend club, formed 103 years ago, has a proud history. Former players such as Ike Dede, Tedley, Arthur Army, John Army, Alan Forrest, Paddy Wilson, Dickie Kemp, Billy Manon, Jack Peel, Arthur Quill, George Arthur Bruce Morrow and Bob Frame helped to make it one of the best known clubs in Australia.

Plans 'hit snags'

However, like a lot of licensed clubs and financial institutions, the Wallsend Soccer Club fell on hard times when it was unable to finance a huge debt, Mr Campbell said.

He said club members were finally convinced that the only way out was to sell up and make a fresh start.

Mr Campbell said plans to redevelop on a site off Munro Rd, however, have "hit several snags" and in the meantime the Wallsend football teams have played on adopted grounds such as the International Sports Centre and Adamstown Oval.

But the delay in establishing a new ground has proved to be a "big problem" for the club, he said. "With all the problems the club has faced the club continues to operate its office from Wallsend and retains its licence pending the opening of new premises on the proposed new location, Mr Campbell said.

Mr Campbell, working from the club's office, has continued as the secretary of the club.

He said he had refrained from making public statements on the club's affairs during the past few years but had decided to give an interview to The Newcastle Herald to clear the air.

The club's books and affairs have been thoroughly and regularly investigated by all the relevant authorities such as the Corporate Affairs, Licensing Police and Liquor Administration Board, Campbell said.

It has also been established that the club's money has been invested in the right way.

"The money is invested in a fixed deposit in the club's account at the Wallsend Commonwealth Bank."

While I'm held to be the villain in some quarters, I have merely continued towards achieving the goals of the relocating and re-establishment of the club and its football team.

The poker machines, despite being in storage, along with other club fittings, which include a grand piano, are still licensed despite the fact that they are not being played.

"It's a remarkable feat and probably the first time that a club in NSW has been able to retain its licence pending completion of the redevelopment program."

Mr Campbell pointed out that he is one of the few club managers to hold a poker machine operator's licence, which was issued by the Licensing Court in Sydney in 1987.

Once we tie up the loose ends in securing the club site to establish the new playing ground and club facilities the development and construction of the new club will follow quickly, Campbell said.

Mr Roy Hitchens, who has been the club's accountant for the past 10 years, had continued to play a major role in the entire program, Mr Campbell said.

Ian Campbell with stored Wallsend club equipment.

Under the history of the club's history, the decision by the Northern NSW Soccer Federation to relocate Wallsend is "pathetic and incorrect".

Wallsend was of the criteria that must meet in 1991, and it was decided that by playing at the new site, Austral Park, the club would be able to play at a new ground.

Mr Campbell said that the club was in agreement to play at Austral Park, but that situation was not ideal, and that situation was not ideal.

NSF promotion candidates 'impatient'

By RICHARD FRENCH,
Soccer Reporter

CLUBS applying to the Northern NSW Soccer Federation for promotion believe implementation of strict ground standards should not be delayed.

The clubs are understandably impatient to move up after years of working to establish quality bases and successful teams.

Their applications, already discussed with a federation sub-committee, are very impressive, according to federation treasurer Ken McNeil.

He says the federation will decide by the end of this month whether any of the six teams will be promoted.

But the decision will be complicated by the need to decide whether some first division clubs must wait for newcomers or the number of first and second division teams increase.

Second division teams include Newcastle, Macquarie, Belconnen, and the Newcastle and Belconnen third divisions. Raymond Terrace is seeking to move to second division.

Representatives of each club said they agreed with a prominent put forward at recent meetings with the federation, to impose criteria on facilities for players, spectators, referees and media.

But despite the goodwill created by the meetings, the federation must decide whether to phase in the criteria or, at the expense of some other clubs, promote some of the teams that have applied.

Edgeworth, last year's minor and color premier, play at dark McLaughlin Oval, next to Edgeworth Bowling Club, and according to director Tom Milgate, the club "has its act together".

Formerly a highly successful first division club, Edgeworth fell from top competition amid the ruins of the early 1960s Northern State League, which cost many clubs dearly because of travelling and entry costs.

Milgate said a $5000 dollar-for-dollar grant from Lake Macquarie City Council had improved lighting and fencing at the oval last season.

"If clubs don't meet the criteria they shouldn't be allowed to stay in first division," Milgate said.

Edgeworth hoped a beer company would again sponsor a pre-season competition the club ran for lower division teams and expected about 40 small businesses to again buy fence signs worth $200 each a season.

Toronto Awaba president Darrell Edwards believed his club provided an ideal opportunity to secure the game's future in south-west Lake Macquarie.

Toronto Awaba had strong juniors applying for entry to Junior State League.

Dropped from first division seven years ago, Toronto Awaba had gone as low as third division.

Shirley Lyle Peacock Field with Macquarie United rugby league club under Toronto Oval Board, the club recently upgraded lighting and Edwards said the only thing missing was a referee's race.

Sponsored for the past two years by a bowling club, the soccer club was confident the deal would be renegotiated.

The federation is there to promote soccer, Edwards said. "You don't do that with tennis (in the first division) that do not get spectators, don't do a ground, or find it hard to fill three teams."

Newcastle Croatia has risen from fifth in second division since forming in 1964. Formerly based at Mayfield Park, Croatia moved last season to share Pennmore Oval with Hamilton rugby union club under an oval board.

Describing the criteria as a "step in the right direction", secretary Tony Collie said Pennmore fulfilled every item.

Croatia had established a financial base by amalgamating its social club with Wickham Bowling Club to form the Croatian Wickham Sports Club Co-operative, although the soccer club has a separate committee to oversee the football budget.

"Our ground has all the facilities, not only for players but also just as importantly for spectators," Collie said.

"I'm willing to comment on the status of other clubs," Collie said. "The federation have been there a lot longer than us and they will make the decision in the best interests of soccer with the knowledge they have."

"That there's no point clubs being in just to make up the numbers whatever division a club is in it would be trying to improve the standards of soccer and groups," Collie said.

Newcastle Croatia's attraction a large following at every game, according to secretary Tony Trajanovski.

In total agreement with the push for strict criteria, Trajanovski's only concern was that some clubs might need longer than others to meet standards.

After dropping out of competition for several years, Macquarie returned in 1975 as Hamilton Hedder when its ethnic name was removed and the committee returned.

It moved quickly up the divisions until reaching the old State League but it too fell back into second division and became Newcastle Macedonia again three years ago.

Macedonia finished equal first last season with Edgeworth but missed the minor premier ship on goal difference. It has shared Arthur Edden Oval at Lambton with fellow second division team Lambton Jaffas on a 99 year lease from Newcastle City Council since 1965 after wandering from Mayfield Park, in Crystal Vale and Cardiff.

Supported by annual sponsorships of up to $4000 a season, $600 ground signs and money raised from functions at the Macedonian Cultural Centre in Broadmeadow, the club has a junior base at Myers Park, Adamstown.

The clubs have rebuilt the oval's fence and restored the playing surface but because the change rooms are council owned no work has been done.

"That we have big plans to not only promote the team but also give other teams something to follow. To survive you need a licensed club, we have the finance but to promote soccer you need more," Trajanovski said.

"We don't need a lot of the criteria but many of the things only need a couple of days' work. If they want to promote soccer we have got the crowd."

Last season's best grand finalist Helmut Soccer Club pressure to join first division's Belmont Swans United, according to secretary Linda Luck.

With 25 junior teams, a record of making the semifinals for the past seven years, use of Cahill Oval, good sponsorship from a licensed, and a young committee Luck believes Belmont can hold its own.

The club had never fallen below second division and reached as high as the local State League. Luck said Cahill Oval met all but one of the criteria a first class race, which could easily be built.

"I do think the criteria are the right way to promote soccer. It's not dying but it's good to see some attempts to be more professional."

"If they (clubs) that don't meet the criteria don't pull their weight, it's not fair to pull their weight if they don't pull their weight."

Raymond Terrace missed the semifinals only once in the past seven years and was returning to Broadmeadow Park after a 25 year absence, president Gary Charlton said.

Terrace had a sizeable sponsorship on offer if it made a first division but needed a quick decision to form an under 18 side.

Broadmeadow Park met all criteria for second division, including being fully enclosed, having dressing sheds and canteen although there is no grandstand yet.

A 32 year old club formerly in second division before the last restructuring, Terrace was third division minor premier ships in 1962, 1966 and last season on King Park.

"I think the criteria are what they've told us what they want and now it's up to us to do it," Charlton said.

"The playing surface at Broadmeadow is great after a two year layoff."

"I believe there are clubs higher up even in first division that don't meet the criteria they don't meet the criteria."

Azzurri called before judiciary

20/11/1989

By RICHARD FRENCH,
Soccer Reporter

THE Northern NSW Soccer Federation has cited the executive of Highfields Azzurri to answer a charge of 'bringing the game into disrepute'.

The citing is based on an 'unauthorised' application by the club to enter a team in the 1989 National Youth League.

It is believed Azzurri is being cited because of the club's attempt to use its junior body and the NSW Amateur Soccer Federation to enter a team in the under-19 competition.

Azzurri's president, Tony Ruffo, secretary, Maria Spero, treasurer, Steve van Epen, and the club's director of youth league coaching, Wayne Simpson, are to appear before the federation judiciary committee tomorrow night.

The club will be asked to give reasons why it should not be dealt with under regulations G2 and G3.

Regulation G2 gives the NNSWF board the right to bring clubs before the judiciary for offences or complaints not dealt with specifically in the regulations. Regulation G3 sets out judiciary procedures and the federation's right to reprimand, put on bonds, fine, suspend, or impose a combination of those punishments on affiliated groups and individuals.

The Herald was told last night by a representative of the federation that Azzurri's actions might be in breach of federation regulations forbidding applications to join competitions outside the Northern federation's area without written permission of the board.

It was reported in The Herald last month that the Northern federation rejected Azzurri's request for permission to apply for a position in the competition vacated by Adamstown Rosebud.

After several attempts to get permission, before and after Adamstown officially withdrew, Azzurri went through the amateur body and was apparently given a verbal assurance by a senior National Soccer League (NSL) official that it would get the place vacated by Adamstown.

But after intervention from the Australian NSW and Northern NSW Soccer federations (despite some elements within the NSL saying they wanted the team), the NSL was told not to accept Azzurri's nomination because, according to the northern federation, the move was 'not in the best interests of the game'.

Spero said last night that the northern federation had never properly explained the reasons behind the decision.

I don't know what we will say at the judiciary until we see what they (the federation) are up to,' Spero said.

We want to know what our actions are (that have brought the game into disrepute) and ask them why they do not answer for them.

We were only asking for what Adamstown already had.

They (the federation) have never told us why we couldn't put in the team.

When we met with them to talk about it they only asked us about our capability to do it.

There must be something else in this; some people think the federation's just trying to get all junior bodies to join them.

The federation didn't like us going over their heads, they said if you don't play with us you will not pay at all.

But we (the clubs) pay them to do the work, we elect them, and it's us that should be controlling them.

The northern federation representative said he believed Azzurri was given reasons for the decision during the occasion it met with directors to seek permission to apply to the NSL, although another representative said he could not recall if that had been done.

The first representative said the federation might not have allowed Adamstown to re-apply for the competition because the board was committed to Newcastle getting behind a concerted, uniform effort to get a complete senior and under-19 outfit into the national league.

Asked what Azzurri could achieve now the representative said all clubs signed a declaration that they would abide by the rules of the federation.

Azzurri planning appeal against 'gross misconduct' fine

By RICHARD FRENCH
Soccer Reporter

HIGHFIELDS Azzurri Soccer Club has been fined $500 by the Northern NSW Soccer Federation judiciary for gross misconduct according to the rules of the 'association' after being found not guilty of bringing the game into disrepute.

The club fronted the judiciary on Tuesday night to answer a charge of bringing the game into disrepute for making an application through the NSW Amateur Soccer Federation to enter a team in the 1989-90 National Youth League.

Azzurri officials and the chairman of the judiciary, John Wallace, refused after the three-hour hearing to reveal the decision. The club's secretary Maria Spero, said that if she spoke to the media the club would be back before the judiciary again.

Spero would say yesterday only that the club's committee would meet to decide how it would approach an appeal she expected to be lodged by 5pm yesterday.

The club has 72 hours to appeal writing to a board of members of other clubs executives. If Azzurri appeals but is not satisfied it can make a final appeal against the verdict of the penalty to the full board of directors who, according to federation secretary Narelle Dean, lodged the original complaint.

Azzurri was called to answer the 'disrepute' charge under federation regulations G2 and G3.

Regulation G2 covers 'Matters Not Specifically Dealt With', giving federation directors power to deal with any offences and complaints and other matters not otherwise specifically provided for in these regulations.

Regulation G3 (c) gives the judiciary power to examine reports concerning incidents of misconduct likely to bring the game into disrepute. . . . to impose penalties by way of reprimand, bonds, fines, suspension or a combination.

The decision, issued yesterday by Dean, states that

Azzurri acted in a very foolish and illegal way to gain their own advantage and has brought serious publicity against the Federation and the code in general — but the judiciary do not feel that they Azzurri have brought the game into disrepute by their action but have caused deep concern among our Federation, NSW Federation, National Soccer League and the Australian Soccer Federation and it is felt that this conduct has been serious and deliberate and not entirely honest. We find the club guilty of gross misconduct according to the rules of the federation and accordingly fine them $500 for their serious actions.

Asked how the judiciary could find the club not guilty on the charge being heard and then fine it on another charge, Dean said: 'It all came out last Tuesday night. But I was not privy to the judiciary's decision. They obviously strongly enough to make that many I cannot answer because I was not there when the verdict was made.'

The Herald tried unsuccessfully last night to contact Wallace.

The three-hour hearing on Tuesday night was attended by Spero, club president Tony Ruffo and its director of youth league coaching Wayne Simpson.

Azzurri's national youth soccer league bid blocked

'Politics have come before the interest of the game and young players'

Tony Labbozzetta

By RICHARD FRENCH
Soccer Reporter

THE Northern NSW Soccer Federation has blocked moves by Highfields Azzurri to enter a team in the 1989-90 National Youth League.

The northern federation recently rejected Azzurri's request for permission to apply to the National Soccer League for the entry of an under-19 team in the summer season of soccer that begins on November 3.

But after the rejection, the northern first division club used its associated junior club, Hamilton Azzurri, to bypass the northern federation and apply to the NSL through the NSW Amateur Soccer Federation.

Azzurri's move followed a decision by Adamstown Rosebud to withdraw from the league after the northern federation rejected its bid to apply to the NSW Soccer Federation for entry into Sydney second division as a means of gaining access to the NSW State League.

The deputy chairman of the NSL, Tony Labbozzetta, who has described the northern federation's attitude as illogical and disappointing, told The Newcastle Herald that last week that the NSL had received a directive from the Australian Soccer Federation to reject Azzurri's application because it applied through a body not affiliated with the mainstream of soccer federations.

Labbozzetta said last week that the NSL had 'gladly accepted' Azzurri's application because it believed a northern team should be in the league to give young players an opportunity to compete at the highest level possible.

Azzurri's director of youth league coaching, Wayne Simpson, has said that Azzurri's junior club applied through the amateur body only after the northern federation rejected the application several Simpson said last week that Azzurri had received from the NSL a verbal acceptance of their application, but were expecting formal confirmation this week.

But after Azzurri was told of its acceptance last Thursday night, the northern federation moved to communicate to the ASF its objection to entry of the team. The NSL is subordinate to the ASF.

Labbozzetta said the direction from the ASF was 'nothing more than political manoeuvring'. But the NSL had no choice but to follow the order.

He said it was 'sad Newcastle did not have representation in the national competition' and he was disappointed that politics have come before the interest of the game and young players.

The president of the northern federation, Dave Williams, has confirmed that the board of that body passed a resolution to reject any further application by Azzurri on the grounds that it was not in the best interests of football in the north. The same reason given to Adamstown when the federation rejected its application to seek permission to play in Sydney.

But Williams refused to elaborate on the reason and said that if Azzurri wanted further explanation its executive had to ask for those reasons in writing.

The Herald has been unable to contact a member of the ASF for comment.

Labbozzetta said last week before the ASF directive was received that he believed 'Azzurri was the only northern team to apply to take Adamstown's place'.

The travel involved means an extra expense for the NSL but if Azzurri wants to come, the NSL considers it a service to the younger players, he said.

We're happy to make that contribution if they want to come, if they don't it saves us money.

How can it not be in the best interests of any federation to have them in the top national competition?

To say it (Azzurri being in the national under-19) is against the best interests of the federation cannot be how that is logical.

The Adamstown representative confirmed that when his club applied to the northern federation to enter an under-19 team nationally there was no opposition.

Simpson said that with the national competition being played over summer and finishing in May, Azzurri under-19 players could be back in the northern competition before the June 20 cut-off for registrations.

In the season just gone, one Adamstown national youth player played and another sat on the bench in the grand final against

Wentworth. Azzurri's junior super league, had a highly successful season this year, its under-18 side made the northern grand final and the club was gearing up to recruit the best young players in the district for a national campaign.

When asked for comment last week, Williams said the matter is in the hands of the ASF and I don't wish to comment.

Williams said he had 'heard' Azzurri applied through the amateur federation but was unclear about many details of the issue because the secretary (of the federation, Natalie Dean) looks at 95% of the correspondence.

He asserted that a junior club applying to an amateur federation or a senior club that was affiliated with the northern federation was a 'conflict of interest'.

Williams accused clubs of not putting in 'enough energy' to help the federation get teams into the national league - 'they wouldn't have to go outside the area'.

The president of Azzurri, Tony Ruffo, said the club would not take any action until it had in writing the NSL's acceptance or rejection of its application.

I have no idea why they (the northern federation) are doing that. Very narrow-minded people. Place for years and we need a big changeover to get something done for the game. Ruffo said last week.

We've got some of the best young players around, and I'm not just talking about our club.

And if those kids don't get to compete against other good players how can they get to play in the NSL?

They should be exposed to the big-time game so other kids will see them and say 'if they can do it we can too'.

Our club pays money to the federation all the time but we didn't ask the federation for any money to do this.

'The application was not in the best interests of football in the north'

Azzurri officials told not to comment on judiciary decision

22/11/1989
By RICHARD FRENCH
Soccer Reporter

THE outcome of a Northern NSW Soccer Federation judiciary hearing last night is believed to have been unfavourable for Highfields Azzurri club.

The federation had cited the executive of the club to answer a charge of bringing the game into disrepute.

The citing was based on an "unauthorised application" to enter a team in the 1989 National Youth League.

But after a three-hour hearing last night neither the judiciary nor Azzurri officials would comment, although Azzurri secretary Maria Sporo said, "It is not good".

She said that the Azzurri officials were told by the judiciary not to comment or they would be back before the judiciary again.

The Herald believes that federation regulations allow that body's secretary to make public the results of a judiciary hearing.

The federation secretary, Narelle Dean, was present during the hearing but left before the verdict was made, saying she could not comment until that verdict was

After being refused entry to the judiciary hearing. The Herald asked its chairman, John Wallace, if he would release the outcome.

But Wallace said he would not make any comment and The Herald should take it up with federation officials.

I am not permitted to make any announcements, as you well know, Wallace said.

If you quote me I will put you with everything I can.

Another member of the judiciary explained that federation regulations did not allow members of the judiciary to make any statements.

Meanwhile, the federation will advertise soon for a full time executive officer or general manager to begin work early next year.

The federation has been discussing for some time the need to have a full time employee responsible for promotion and marketing of the game in the north.

The federation is run by an elected board of nine and has an office staff that includes a company secretary and an assistant.

If a full-time officer is appointed, the position of honorary secretary is expected to be filled from the ranks of the directors.

As part of restructuring of the federation, new affiliated associations are being formed. The association of New England was split last week into two new bodies, New England and North West.

Other new associations formed recently are Taree, Kempsey, Coffs Harbour and Far North Coast. Separate associations for Wyong, Newcastle, Lake Macquarie, Maitland and Raymond Terrace are under consideration.

People have nominated for three vacant positions on the board of the federation. They are, Tony Chasilton, Peter Dumoville, John Lamb, Kevin Price, John Smith, William Walker and David Williams.

Of the seven who nominated for the three vacant positions, only two are directors, future officers Walker and president Williams.

North appoints ^{12/12/1970} full-time manager

By RICHARD FRENCH

THE Northern NSW Soccer Federation appointed yesterday a full-time officer to be responsible for the promotion and administration of the game in an area from the Hawkesbury River in the south and north to the Queensland border.

Garry Screen, currently the sports administrator with the NSW Department of Education in the Hunter Region, will officially begin in his new job on May 7.

The federation had initially advertised the full-time official's position as an executive director but it was announced yesterday that Screen would be known as general manager in keeping with slight changes made to his contract during negotiations with the federation.

Screen has spent the past five years working as the Education Department's sports administrator in a job which has seen him involved in organising and co-ordinating a wide range of sports throughout NSW.

He has not been directly connected with senior soccer since he was a secretary and committee member at West Wallsend in the early 1970s.

But his qualifications for the job include having helped the Education Department develop closer relationships with business, liaising with local government on the use of facilities, publicising all aspects of school sports through the media and fostering sports through development programs in co-operation with parents and community organisations.

The appointment of Screen brings the North into line with most other soccer federations in Australia which have full-time general managers and office staff. The need for a professional and business manager for soccer in the North has never been greater, with increasing numbers of people concerned that the game is not being promoted properly on or off the field.

Screen said yesterday that the job with the federation 'offered quite a challenge'.

'There are a lot of problems, but they are in sport generally, not just soccer,' he said.

He expected the board of directors and the clubs and associations that make up the federation to provide the support, direction and suggestions needed to lift the game.

But the contract had been changed to give him the title of general manager so he can make more far reaching decisions.

Screen said that he was keen to remind people that the federation was not just based on Newcastle.

Weston triumphant again as luck deserts Rosebuds

By RICHARD FRENCH,
Soccer Reporter

ABOUT 3000 people witnessed one of the great Northern NSW Soccer Federation grand finals on Saturday night at Macquarie Field, Speers Point, when Weston Bears defeated Adamstown Rosebuds 4-2 on penalties after the match was locked 2-2 after extra time.

In a cruel twist of fate for Adamstown, which has won four premierships in succession but also lost the past four grand finals, the federation proposed only in the week ending up to the grand final that it canvass the idea of introducing a replay next season if the grand final is still drawn after extra time.

But that possibility will be no consolation to an Adamstown club that is now wondering what it must do to win the competition double, not to spectators who would probably welcome the chance to see two such great sides go around again in a classic struggle.

"There's not really much I can expect except that I'm really disappointed for the players," Adamstown coach Neville Power said.

I said before the game that with a bit of luck we'd win.

We didn't have that luck because we scored an own goal and hit the post a few times.

But it was a terrific game and I wonder how many spectators we would get at a replay.

Adamstown has now been beaten two years in a row by a Weston side whose coach, Derek Thompson, has said after both successes that the premiers were the better side on the night.

But Thompson's modesty belies the fact that Weston has a fine fighting record of winning grand finals when the premiership, still the most highly-valued prize in soccer has been beyond them.

We would have preferred to win it another way Thompson said.

Adamstown was the better side in general play but my players made a great recovery, especially after we lost two players to injury.

That Adamstown played well enough to win was illustrated by the nomination of Weston goalkeeper Peter Oberhauser as man of the match for his numerous brave and spectacular saves.

Going into the game with the monkey tail and truly on their back, Adamstown appeared in the 15th minute to be ready to go as when it scored the first goal of the game and opened up the possibility of a flood.

In almost dream-like fashion, Adamstown created a goal out of nothing when fullback Mark Smith knocked the ball into the box, striker David Bock slipped it through the defence to his partner Ross Wells and he simply slid it under Oberhauser.

Ten minutes later Adamstown's dream became a nightmare when captain Neil Owens headed into the wrong net.

The unfortunate Owens had no choice but to play a Denis King free kick which big Weston defender Martin Murphy was threatening to put away at the far post as Adamstown goalkeeper Steve Dorman hesitated.

Owens header which he was trying to deflect from the goalmouth, slid off the side of his head and over a hapless Dorman.

In the 32nd minute, Weston's young Lionel King left the field with a groin strain and retiring veteran Tom Sturt, who went out with a fine performance for a 36-year-old, came on.

The match developed into a tight midfield tussle which King was dominating until the 38th minute when McQuarrie asserted his first real influence on the game by pinching the ball and sending Owens up the park before the move ended in a shot wide of goal.

McQuarrie capped his now customary grand final booking in the 41st minute when he slammed into tough Weston defender Dave Miller.

Early in the second half Adamstown came alive and a more involved McQuarrie twice headed unsuccessfully towards goal.

But Weston benefited in the 51st minute from Adamstown's commitment to attack when fullback Brett Mahrton stole the ball and sent striker Stuart Chandler racing downfield.

Chandler outpaced the defence and hammered a shot past an exposed Dorman as soon as he hit the penalty area.

Only five minutes later Oberhauser made one of his best saves when he just got a hand on a shot hit hard and low by Bock.

Weston suffered another cruel blow in the 62nd minute when promising fullback Guy Freeburn left the field with a suspected broken collarbone, although like Sturt, Weston lost nothing through the entry of the hard-working David Wingrove.

But at the time of the substitution, an unsettled Weston allowed Owens to surge from the back again and set up an attack that saw Bock pass the ball to Wells inside the right of the box and allow him to sock the ball under Oberhauser and into the net.

Oberhauser replied in the 77th minute when he launched himself skyward across the face of goal, deny Wells a hat trick.

Wells lost his striking partner Bock in the 79th minute to an injury that had threatened during the week to keep him out of the game but it did nothing to stop Wells. With only 30 seconds of normal time left, Wells created a winning chance for Adamstown when he took a ball from defender Scott Dorman, beat the defence before crossing to a waiting line of at-

But both Bock's replacement Glen Chapman, and McQuarrie were unable to get the touch that would have beaten Oberhauser and clinched the match.

Hardly a shot was fired in anger in the first 10 minutes of extra time, although Adamstown was kept on the back foot by Weston led by Anthony Berrick, Chandler and Lorenzo Sertis.

In the 103rd minute Chapman, who served Adamstown so well during the season in the starting line-up, had a chance at glory in a one-on-one with Oberhauser, but the talented custodian spread his body and blocked the shot.

And Oberhauser finished a memorable game by tipping a header by McQuarrie from a Peter Winsor free kick over the bar.

Then the most horrible of soccer's procedures, the penalty shoot-out, began.

The shootout took a nightmareish turn for the worse for Adamstown when on their second kick from the spot Winsor hit the post.

Weston converted their next two kicks to lead 3-1 before Adamstown defender Mark Ryan put the ball wide to end a miserable night for a side that even Thompson still rates the best in the competition.

Soccer reform paper proposes cutting clubs, two divisions

By RICHARD FRENCH,
Soccer Reporter

THE Northern NSW Soccer Federation is considering a radical restructuring of its senior and junior competitions that would include reducing the number of clubs and introducing two top divisions based on district boundaries.

The moves, part of an informal document, are set to be discussed by the federation's board of directors while the structure of soccer throughout Australia looks likely to change dramatically under the recommendations of the Bradley Report.

The northern federation issued details of the proposal to The Herald after fears that a leak of the document to clubs without proper explanation of its aims was likely to jeopardise the chances of the much needed reforms being introduced successfully.

The basic premise behind the changes is that soccer in Australia, and Northern NSW particularly, can no longer afford to support so many teams and competitions; in effect, the game must channel its limited financial and player resources into fewer clubs and associations.

More than 50 clubs compete in the federation's five senior divisions, covering Newcastle, Lake Macquarie, part of the Central Coast, Port Stephens and the Coalfields.

But the federation's area of responsibility includes an area from the Hawkesbury River to the Queensland border and the proposed reforms include annual meetings between the best teams from all over the federation's 'State' and the development of associations to represent the rights of city and country members.

Under the plan, two divisions of eight teams each would take part from 1992 in a competition without promotion and relegation but rather a system of inclusion and exclusion based on criteria of playing and financial strength and ground standards set by the board last year.

The selection of the eight first and second division teams would be made on the basis of local government boundaries with the likely representation to be two teams from Newcastle, three from Lake Macquarie and one each from Cessnock, Maitland, Port Stephens, Upper Hunter and the Central Coast.

The plan also proposes to attack the touchy subject of encouraging clubs to amalgamate and change their identities to match their district bases, including a demand that the only team with Newcastle in its name could be the city's representative in the national league.

Clubs in the two top divisions would field first grade, under-19 and possibly under-16 sides, doing away with reserve grade competitions which often harbour more players on their way down than youngsters aiming for first grade.

Teams that miss selection for the 'premier' divisions would not be abandoned by the federation, with the board planning to provide autonomous competitions at an association level.

The plan also includes changes in junior competitions with emphasis again placed on the best clubs developing junior bases with improved coaching and development programs.

Like the Bradley Report, a study commissioned by the Australian Soccer Federation that could include among other things an invitation for Newcastle to join the national league in 1991-92, the northern federation plans to reform its voting structure.

By 1992, full members with voting rights would be 10 to 12 associations with two votes each, 16 top two division clubs with one vote each and the national league club with two votes.

The president of the northern federation, Dave Williams, believes that introduction of the proposed reforms is vital if soccer is to produce an image in keeping with the professionalism of sport in the 1990s.

'The Bradley Report leads the way for the development of the game and its clubs from the junior level right through to the top ranks,' Williams said.

'It will not be change for change's sake but everything in soccer has been stagnant for a long time.'

In coming out to back up the board's determination to implement change, Williams commented on several specific items in the proposals.

On voting changes: 'One of the most important things in the proposal is that clubs and associations throughout the State of northern NSW would have voting rights to control what happens.'

'It's very important that country areas have an equitable say because they have been among the best supporters of the federation.'

'If we are going to maintain the north as a soccer State the country areas have to support us, and they have been neglected in the past.'

On amalgamations: 'There is no doubt that a lot of areas in the Hunter Valley have far too many clubs. It's becoming more and more difficult for many of them to continue and the reason for proposing some amalgamations is to make a lower number of clubs more viable.'

'I believe some clubs have at least discussed amalgamating but there have been no firm agreements.'

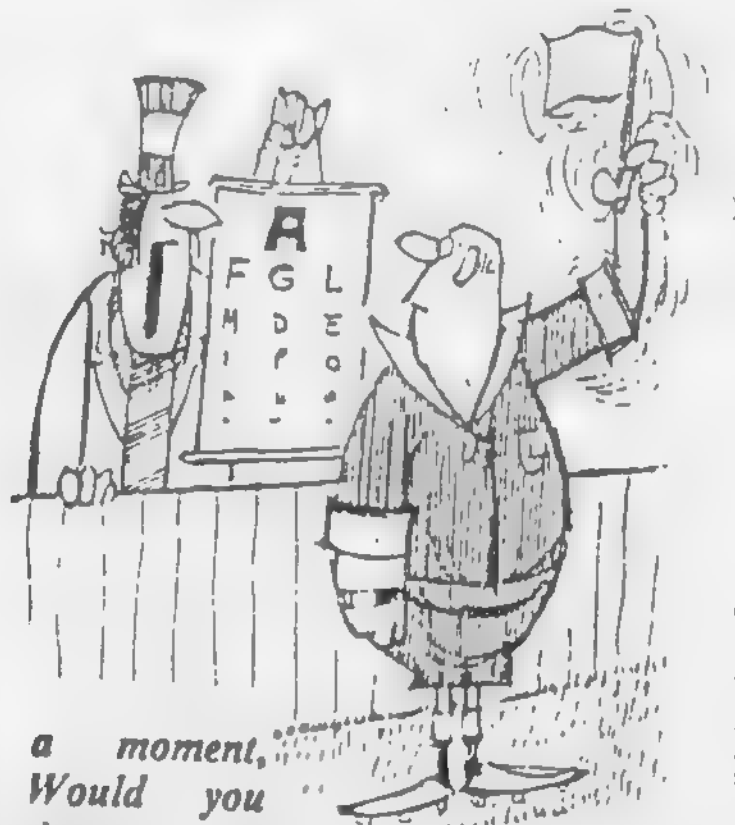

On selection criteria: 'We all, and the board particularly, have to use foresight.'

'But it is up to the clubs to convince the board that they have a right to continue by proving they have the motivation and the administration to be viable.'

On the selection process: 'If what we are proposing happens then I would expect everyone on the board to have input into making majority decisions.'

'All I can hope is that when the decision is made the clubs which miss out on being included in the top two divisions will be satisfied they were given every opportunity.'

'I would not discard the idea of some independent committee being involved if I thought that would be useful in making the decisions.'

"Just a moment, mate. Would you mind trying to read the top letter?"

Goalie shuts out Rosebud

By RICHARD FRENCH,
Soccer Reporter

GOALKEEPER Peter Oberhauser has almost earned himself a place in Northern first division soccer club Adamstown Rosebud's hall of fame.

The problem for Adamstown is that the 25-year-old plays for the club's arch grand final rival, Weston.

Another magnificent performance by Oberhauser in yesterday's gripping 0-0 grand final draw in front of about 2200 people has set up a grand final replay at Macquarie Field on Wednesday night.

As Adamstown searched for the reason why it could win five premierships in succession and yet fail again to break a four-year grand final hoodoo, Oberhauser was the toast of an otherwise angry Weston coach Roy Johnson, who described the rest of his side's performance as awful.

In a game almost completely dominated by Adamstown, Oberhauser, as he has done in the past two grand final wins by Weston, kept his side in touch with both hands, his body and his feet.

And yet the quietly spoken custodian can no find no reason why he lifts himself so high above the pack on grand final day.

"It's just something that happens," Oberhauser said.

"I guess I just get really keyed up for grand finals."

Adamstown outplayed us today but the only time I was really worried was when John McQuarrie got into the box in the second half and came at me.

Adamstown skipper and defender Scott Dorman, who played himself to a standstill, said that his side did enough to win but Oberhauser was brilliant.

"We just have to relax for a couple of days and get back into it," Dorman said.

Coaches not planning changes for title replay

WESTON Bears coach Roy Johnson and his Adamstown counterpart, Neville Power, will probably resist making changes for the Northern first division soccer grand final replay at Macquarie Field on Wednesday night after the 0-0 draw yesterday.

Power, whose side was denied victory only by seven magnificent saves by Weston goalkeeper Peter Oberhauser, said he could see no reason to alter his side.

Despite Adamstown again missing the chance to break a four-year grand final hoodoo, it is Johnson who believes he will have to work harder to lift his side mentally.

"I don't know what goes through the players' minds some days, we played absolutely awfully and did not deserve to win," Johnson said.

"For some reason my blokes just stood back and watched."

"But by the same token you'd have to say that Adamstown aren't that good either because they had most of the possession and chances and did not score."

"I think we're fit enough to do it again on Wednesday night and with four years' experience of extra-time and penalty shootouts we can win."

We played so well today that Weston was harder in the game but to their credit their defence never gave in."

For most of the match, Adamstown cut a swathe through Weston and a wave looked more likely to score.

"We'll have a light run (tomorrow night) and watch a video of the game and just try to get over the anti-climax of it all."

Having guided Adamstown through five successive premierships and four grand final losses, Power was probably the most puzzled man in Australian soccer.

Peter Oberhauser is just a freak; that's three years in a row he's done that to us," Power said.

"I couldn't make any changes to my team for the replay because there's nothing more they can give."

"It's so disappointing for the players to perform like that and come away with nothing."

Power said it would be hard for both teams to get motivated for the replay. Adamstown, too, would have only a light training session tomorrow.

Neville Power

the second a stronger effort from Dorman, in the 20th and 22nd minutes.

Five minutes after half-time Wells was left looking to the heavens for help when Oberhauser spread his body to block a scorching low drive.

But it was the 55th minute save off a shot by McQuarrie which told the story of the day.

McQuarrie, coming into the match after a two-month layoff through injury, got into the box for the first time, turned on the ball and hammered it waist high to the side of Oberhauser who spread his body in the air to stop the shot.

With only 10 minutes left in normal time, Adamstown finally made Oberhauser look mortal when he misjudged a cross by Wells which midfielder Glen Chapman headed towards goal only to see it hit the post and bounce out.

After running rings around Weston's defence all day but failing to put a shot on target, Adamstown striker and Northern player of the year David Bock almost pulled victory from the jaws of anguish three minutes from the end.

Sent into the box by McQuarrie Bock ran straight at Oberhauser then hammered the ball just wide of the goalkeeper. But somehow he stretched out a hand and parried the blow.

Ironically, Oberhauser's opposite number, Steve Dorman, was the hero of the 20 minutes extra time as Adamstown's attack went into its shell.

A great save off Stewart Chandler a rush at Beckett which prevented him getting his shot inside the post and an awkward low stop off a long-range shot by substitute Lionel King gave Adamstown one more bite at what must seem to them to be forbidden fruit of victory.

Rosebud ends agony in title shootout

8/9/91

By RICHARD FRENCH,
Soccer Reporter

ADAMSTOWN Rosebud's long agony finally ended when they defeated Weston Bears 4-2 on penalties after a 1-1 extra time draw in last night's Northern NSW First Division soccer grand final replay at Macquarie Field.

The five-time premier stared a fifth successive grand final defeat in the face after being down 0-1 with only 45 seconds left in normal time.

But a ball flicked into the box by midfielder Glen Chapman was met by striker Ross Wells, who somehow turned among several Weston defenders and slotted the ball under goalkeeper Peter Oberhauser.

After losing the past two grand finals to Weston and being forced into the replay after a 0-0 draw with Weston on Sunday through the brilliance of Oberhauser, Adamstown coach Neville Power understandably declared that 'justice has been done'.

'That's probably the worst performance we've had in a grand final and yet we won,' Power said.

'But justice has been done for the players.'

'Scott Dorman was inspirational, it was a great captain's knock.'

Dorman, who had lived through the anguish of the past four grand final losses, choked back tears as blood streamed from a cut over his left eye.

'We've done it for Neville and for ourselves and for our loyal supporters,' Dorman said.

'It will probably make a lot of us want to come back and do it again after getting a sniff of what it feels like.'

'Even though we had five premierships, the team trained all season to win a grand final.'

Dorman praised the performance of his brother, Steve, in goals last night, in light of the brilliant display by Oberhauser in Sunday's game, which forced the replay.

'Sunday belonged to Peter Oberhauser but it was Steve's night tonight.'

'He isn't called on often but when he is he is one of a kind.'

Although Steve Dorman was beaten to allow Weston the lead in the 26th minute, the Bears' breakthrough was due to a fine cross by fullback Ian Tressider and a glancing header under the bar by 16-year-old striker Justin Kavanagh.

As usual, Weston could not be faulted for effort and, after soaking up 20 minutes of early pressure from Adamstown, outplayed their opponent for most of the match.

But Steve Dorman's brave keeping and the desperation of Adamstown brought home a well-earned victory in front of a 2000 strong crowd, hundreds of whom were allowed in the gates free by the federation so the game could start on time.

Weston coach Roy Johnson conceded that only Oberhauser's performance on Sunday clinched the replay.

But he believed, as did Power, that Weston played better last night.

'The game goes for 90 minutes and we had them tonight,' Johnson said.

'With a bit more composure we could have slowed the game down and won.'

'But it was a good game of football and good to see young blokes like Justin Kavanagh and Shane Pryce for Adamstown do so well.'

Bloodied but victorious Adamstown skipper Scott Dorman displays the grand final trophy last night.

Rosebuds threaten to leave North

By RICHARD FRENCH.
Soccer Reporter

ADAMSTOWN Rosebud players such as goalkeeper Steve Dorman, who might retire if the club does not enter the NSW Soccer League, may get the backing of club officials threatening to run for the Northern federation board.

While Dorman contemplated his future in the game yesterday, Adamstown football secretary Pat Clarke revealed that the club probably would accept the federation's condition to leave the Northern competition if it goes to Sydney.

But Clarke also said that Adamstown officials would stand for the three of nine board positions that become vacant in November if current directors do not come back to the discussion table.

Meanwhile, as Dorman recovered from the celebrations that followed Wednesday's grand final replay victory over Weston, the team's senior player expressed frustration at confusion over Adamstown's possible move to Sydney.

'I'll make up my mind early next year, but it would make it easier if we knew what was happening with the State league,' Dorman said.

'Pete Winsor is giving the game away, my brother Scott may play again and I reckon John McQuarrie will keep playing until he's 50.

But apart from that, the rest of the team is pretty young and Adamstown could field two good sides in the comp here as well as in Sydney.

Dorman, who saved on strike in Wednesday's penalty shootout to help give the premiers their first grand final win in five successive attempts, is one of the players Clarke is confident of keeping.

All the players said at lunch on Thursday they'd play again, they're a great bunch, Clarke said.

The club is going through the right channels and will wait to see if the federation decides on Wednesday to meet with us again.

The federation is only assuming it if we play in Sydney the two, as we would field here would be second rate.

'I believe it's most probable that, if asked, the membership would leave the Northern competition to play just in Sydney.'

But if we do not succeed in changing the federation's mind there are plenty of people within the club ready to run for election to the board.

Last game on sportsground

The Soccer 'ghosts' of more than half a century will be present next Sunday when Cessnock City Soccer Club plays its last game on Cessnock Sportsground.

And, by an eerie coincidence Cessnock's opponent will be Adamstown, the very team it played in its first match at the sportsground on April 2, 1936.

Many a titanic struggle has been witnessed at the ground in the golden and not so golden days of the teams that have took the paddock.

The sportsground has been the scene of numerous international fixtures and has played host to the Austrian Rapids and China. Cessnock players were highly regarded members of those great Northern NSW rep teams that really put it to their more highly-fancied opponents.

Many will cast their mind back to those good old days when the ground was packed for these internationals. Youngsters of the late fifties (and I was one) were among the crowd of kids allowed to sit inside the perimeter fence. And the crowd still flocked there for normal premiership matches with numbers spilling into the outer ground.

The gloomy clouds of war were gathering over Europe when Cessnock City played its first match at the sportsground. The team members for that historic first clash on the new oval were W. Inglis, R. Knot, C. Hamilton, Davi Evans, J. Thomson, Cec Mowatt, K. O'Neill, B. Davis, Joe Keirs, Les Barrett, Gordon Thomson, Chris Mowatt, B. McLaren, M. Blane, S. Laws, J. Orr, Thoe Jurd, B. McQueen, B. Edwards and H. L. Archigald.

Next Sunday's match will see the club farewelling the ground and setting events in motion for when it launches the 1992 season at its new Turner Park complex at Aberdare.

The complex will feature a brand new surface, player and spectator amenities, first rate communications system and lighting.

The club is in a sound financial position and has major annual sponsorship from the Wentworth Hotel, Cessnock Chicken Spot, North End Fuel and Food and Geoff Boyd Holden.

Hints for all Players.

- (1) Always carry a spare pair of laces in your bag.
- (2) If you find that your boots are smelly, sprinkle some Carb Soda in your boots.
- (3) If you have to buy a new pair of boots for the coming season and you fear that the new one's may give you blister's. Just rub your feet with Methalyted Spirits for a few day's before using your new boots.
- (4) If you receive a kick in the knee or ankle during the game, and you find a little fluid or soreness Bathe you ankle or knee in hot water that contains 1 & 1/2 cups of Vinegar and a handful or two of washing soda for about 20 minutes.
after thouroughly drying rub "Iodex into the affected parts.
Now don't throw out the water it can be use again.
- (5) Grass Stains on your new white shorts can be removed Rubbing the stain with Methalyted or Glycerine, leave stand for an hour or two, then wash. Hey Presto.
- (6) WET AND MUDDY DAYS
Rub the soles of your boots with Tallow (If you can still buy it) or use pig fat or Vaseline, this will help stop the mud from sticking to your boots.
- (7) Make your own Rubbing Linament.
2 cakes of Camphor (Crushed) 6ozs Methalyted Spirits, 4ozs Water, 4ozs Olive Oil or Paraffin Oil.
4ozs D.D. Eucalyptus, 1 Teaspoon of Washing Soda

Federation gives Rosebud green light for State League

30/8/99

THE Northern NSW Soccer Federation has given Adamstown Rosebud permission to apply to join the NSW State League next season.

Adamstown will move quickly to hold talks with a possible sponsor because financial stability is one of the key conditions the NSW Soccer Federation will ask it to meet.

Conditions placed on the permission to apply through the Northern federation include clarification from the NSW federation of its criterion on home ground standards and administrative capability and the club's ability to raise enough finance to support the plan.

The club's general manager, Pat Clarke, said yesterday that Adamstown would meet again with the Northern federation on Wednesday to show its board a budget and other plans for the application.

As we told the federation, the submission hinges on obtaining the finance to allow us to compete successfully,' Clarke said.

Although we were speaking to a possible sponsor nothing could really be done until now.

The club is very grateful to the other clubs which expressed their support but while we might say this is a victory there is still a lot to be done.

But Adamstown is well known for what it can do on and off the park and we would not be applying unless we believed we could achieve something.

Northern NSW Soccer Federation general manager Garry Screen said the permission for Adamstown to apply was conditional on it being able to still field a strong side in the Northern competition, remaining a full member of the Northern federation and its ability to enter the State league with a sound financial base.

Screen said that there was a 'very long debate' on the issue and the major concern of directors was that Adamstown's plan to play in the State league and the Northern first division might put it under great financial strain.

The federation also considered but did not put to the vote a motion to ask the NSW federation to consider allowing more teams, up to a maximum of four, from the North into the State league if Adamstown proved successful and as other clubs became capable of making the move.

NSW federation general manager Peter Thorne said yesterday that although his board was aware of Adamstown's long history of success it, like all other clubs, would have to show it could meet the criterion for the State league.

'We're not looking specifically at any one club but rather an application from the Northern federation for a club to join the State league,' Thorne said.

'We are also going to consider putting in place a scheme to ensure there is always a team from the North.'

But Thorne said that the NSW federation knew Adamstown had good basic facilities and he did not see a major problem with the club 'satisfying the criterion'.

All Northern Players Played.
Referee.

● The Northern NSW-Coalfields squad named yesterday to play the Malaysian national team next month is dominated by players from Newcastle's representative in the NSW Super League Adamstown Rosebud, and this year's Northern NSW Soccer Federation premier, Highfields Azzurri.

Coached by the Weston Bears' mentor, Roy Johnson, the 16-man invitational squad contains 10 players from arguably the two strongest clubs in the area, six from Adamstown and four from Highfields.

Joining those players in a squad which contains vast experience at State and national league levels will be one player from perennial Northern first division finalists, West Wallsend, four from the traditionally strong Weston club, and one from emerging Northern club, Wickham.

The team will play Malaysia at Weston Park on January 11 before the visitors face the Newcastle Breakers at Austral Park on January 13.

The squad is:

Coach: Roy Johnson. Manager: Bill Woodruff.

Greek tragedy unfolds as four red cards shown

SOCCER

By JENNY TARRAN

A GREEK tragedy was the only way to describe last night's match between the Olyriou and Greek first division soccer team FC Aris de Salonique with four Aris players sent off in the last 15 minutes of the game.

Temper flared after half time when Aris scored in the 71st minute.

The game deteriorated after that with Aris forcing referee Neil Jones to haul out the yellow card on more than eight occasions.

G Iosifidis scored the only goal of the night for Aris with the help of Z. Lonstar but Lonstar quickly scored a yellow card after the goal and the first scuffle broke out after an Olyriou hung onto the ball and an Aris player pushed him.

Aris' K. Kostasidis was awarded his second yellow card of the evening and started the endos back to the showers for the Aris side.

In disgust I. Hristomidis kicked the ball away and was shown the yellow card.

Like a bull hassled by a red rag Kostasidis reacted badly to his team mate's warning and was given the yellow card treatment as well.

A standoff resulted between the two teams gathered in the corner near Aris's goal hurling abuse at each other.

With only two minutes to go and several minutes injury time Kostasidis was shown another card which he promptly grabbed out of Jones's hand and flung on the ground.

Kostasidis and T. Papadopoulos were then sent off and for a few moments it looked like there would have been a walkout by the Greek first division side.

Within a minute the game went from the ridiculous to the sublime with Iosifidis sent off as well sending the total number of Aris players sent off up to four.

After the Olyriou defeated Aris 1-0 a fortnight ago in Victoria everyone expected Aris to try and defeat the Olyriou but no one expected Aris to take the grudge so far.

Richard Alseich a midfielder who plays for West Adelaide was the biggest casualty of the night.

Last night he was at the John Hunter Hospital with a suspected broken leg after a harsh tackle.

Olyriou Kevin Muscat was declared unfit by doctors before the game and Luke Casserly replaced him on the field.

● Soccer coach Eddie Thomson will experiment in next month's two international matches against South Africa despite expressing delight with Australia's performance against a star-studded France side in the Kirin Cup in Japan on Thursday night.

Australia lost 0-1 to the powerful European nation in Kobe but had plenty of the play against a team which included the famed striking duo of Eric Cantona and Jean-Pierre Papin.

Thomson said he could put his established side out against South Africa but he wanted to look at other players.

Among the players earmarked by Thomson for duty against South Africa are the uncapped Melbourne United duo of defender striker Steve Horvat and striker Mark Viduka.

"Stan Lazaridis, Steve Horvat and Mark Viduka will get a run and Paul Okon, if he is fit," said Thomson from Japan.

Australia unearthed a new goalkeeping star in the three-nation Kirin Cup tournament in Zeligko Kalac.

The lanky Sydney United custodian replaced the injured Robert Zabec in Australia's 1-1 draw with Japan last Sunday and saved a 28th minute penalty shot from Papin last night.

"He did ever so well. We just keep producing goalkeepers," Thomson said.

In Mark Schwarzer and Zeligko Kalac we have got two great young goalkeepers. Zeligko has been another find.

Kalac apart, the Socceroos coach was heartened by several encouraging individual performances in Thursday night's game, which was played on a water-logged pitch.

He nominated Adelaide City sweeper Milan Ivanovic as man of the match and said Belgium-based forward Aertse Vidmar was outstanding.

Thomson also praised centre backs Mehmet Durakovic of South Melbourne and Alex Tobin of Adelaide City who marked Papin and Cantona respectively.

Azzurri wraps up double

SOCCER

By JENNY TARRAN

HIGHFIELDS Azzurri wrapped up the Northern NSW first division final premiership double after downing Wickham Croun 2-1 in the decider at Mitre 10 Stadium yesterday.

Wickham's only score was an own-goal by Azzurri's Howard Tredinnick but the scoreline belied a dominant first-half performance by them.

But Azzurri's experience showed through and the sky blues took a tight grip on the match soon after the half time break.

The first goal, to Wayne Webb, came in the 50th minute following a scoreless first half. Webb's goal was quickly followed by another in the 57th minute to Wayne Bailey, which pushed Azzurri's advantage out to 2-0.

Not long after Bailey's goal, Webb was shown his second yellow card and marched from the field.

In the 85th minute, while trying to defend, Tredinnick was struck in the chest by the ball in front of the goal mouth and the ball rebounded back into the net.

Azzurri coach Joe Senkalaki said after the game that he was surprised at the intensity shown by Wickham, who finished sixth on the premiership ladder.

'I was getting sick of people telling us it (the final) was going to be a formality. They made us fight till the end,' Senkalaki said.

'Really, whoever makes the final has a chance.

'But as for one man down, the bottom line is we finished on top, we played like we did all year and came out on top.'

Senkalaki played until the final minutes before taking himself off but the 37-year-old would not give a definite answer on whether or not he would be hanging up his boots after this win to concentrate on coaching.

'I will phase myself out of my playing role. That means I don't have to play, but I can,' he said.

While Senkalaki is still uncertain about his playing future, Wickham Croatia coach Craig Hagan is equally unsure about his coaching future. He said yesterday he had not been approached about taking up the position again next year.

Hagan preferred to talk about the fight put up by his team against Azzurri.

'A game like that has got to be a crowd pleaser,' he said.

'We certainly slipped up and missed opportunities, but it was a great effort.

'We had to struggle throughout the season to get on top.

'The results we started getting in the 17th round, and capitalised on were good.

'You have a team in there with no big names, but certainly stars of the future.'

Hagan said that Azzurri's experience proved the difference.

He said that Azzurri's first goal had upset his team, but the second goal, coming so close after the first left them shellshocked.

In the reserve grade final, Hamilton Olympic defeated Weston 3-1, and Weston defeated Edgeworth 1-0 in the under-18 final.

Down but not out: a Hamilton Azzurri player hits the drib but had the last laugh as his team won yesterday's soccer final against Wexham Grout. Full story page 6.
